

Michael Tudor Memorial Award

Call for 2021 Applications

The purpose of the Michael Tudor Memorial Award is to celebrate and realize Michael Tudor's passion for the natural world by encouraging and supporting undergraduate scholarship in ecology and evolutionary biology. This award is granted annually to one student each academic year in the summer.

The amount of this year's award is being determined (approximately $1000), which will be granted to one student for use in the 2021-22 academic year. The recipient may use the award for any purpose (e.g., field supplies or lab materials for research, field quarter course fees or travel, conference travel, housing).

Eligibility

- Recipients must be in good standing in their department
- In at least their second year of undergraduate studies
- An intended or declared Ecology and Evolutionary Biology major

Award Criteria

Applications will be evaluated based on:

- Academic merit
- Compelling use of support
